Notice Regarding Inclusion in the “JPX Startup 100 Index” as a Major Constituent

We are pleased to announce that Synspective, Inc. (the “Company”) has been selected as one of the major weighted constituents of the “JPX Startup 100” Index, effective March 9, 2026, as disclosed on February 13, 2026 by JPX Research Institute Co., Ltd., a subsidiary of Japan Exchange Group, Inc. (JPX) that provides data and index services related to financial instruments markets.

The JPX Startup 100 Index is a stock price index composed of 100 of Japan’s leading high-growth startups. Eligible constituents are issues listed on the TSE Growth Market, as well as issues that have changed their listing market from the TSE Growth Market within a certain period. The index selects constituents based on two indicators that measure the growth potential of startup companies: (1) revenue growth rate and (2) market capitalization growth rate.

By promoting the use of this index-comprising startup companies that demonstrate high growth potential - including through investments in ETFs and other linked financial products, the index is intended to further encourage growth-oriented management among startups and to create a virtuous cycle of expanding investment in companies that successfully achieve growth.
